

In the next steps you will dig deeper in the previously shared experiences and plans by "interviewing" each other:

In PART 2, you take turns to discuss again the previously shared experiences, and the "interviewer" poses questions to help extract more learnings and insights;

In PART 3, you take turns to discuss in more depth future plans, now from the perspective of the new lessons or insights uncovered, by, again, asking each other critical questions.

PART 2_ Learning from each others' past experiences

OBJECTIVE OF THE CONVERSATION

With this, more focused conversation, try to help each other reflect on the experiences you shared already and extract lessons from them related to "Communicating and Engaging with SH".

HOW?

Try to make as many follow up questions as possible, to uncover details and insights from each other experiences. If you cannot think of any, or want to check some examples, you may take a look at the 'Question Cards' we prepared as a support for you to take as inspiration.

Here we have also provided you with boards, for the interviewer(s) to take notes on post-its while posing questions. Take notes in the circle corresponding to the person who's talking.

Question cards (about past experience)

Can you give me more details on your experience with... ?

Can you describe better your experience with... ?

Can you tell more about the situation in which you...?

What were unexpected events or outcomes in their experience/story?

What were the particular causes of something happening in their story?

Tell me WHY! :)

Ask the other person about the reasons behind choosing an approach/strategy

Something that I noticed you really focused on was... What do you think? Why that?

What was something that you found surprisingly difficult ?

Lessons

(Participant 1)

(Participant 2)

(Participant n)

PART 3_ Reflecting on each others' next steps

OBJECTIVE OF THE CONVERSATION

Use this conversation to help each other gain a better idea or detailed perspective on what to do next and how to approach your task/plan.

HOW?

Help each other reflect on your next steps and how to approach them.

For example, you may want to uncover each other's assumptions behind your decisions, on what is required to accomplish these tasks and finally, how the lessons learned in the previous conversation may help each other adjust your plans of action.

Also this time we have provided you with boards, for the interviewer(s) to take notes on post-its while posing questions. Take notes in the circle corresponding to the person who's talking.

Question cards (about future task)

So, what's your next task ?

And, how are you going to do it ?

Why would you go for this approach?

Something that I noticed you are really focusing on is... What do you think?

I guess that this task really requires to be good at ...

If I were in your shoes, I would do this like...

I see similarities with... what do you think?

I see particularly challenging in your case doing... what do you think?

Ask the other person about the reasons behind choosing an approach/strategy

Next steps

(Participant 1)

(Participant 2)

(Participant n)

PART 1 _ When did you (will you) deal with stakeholder communication and engagement in your practice?

Take some time to think about previous experiences and future plans regarding this topic in your practice, to then share them with each other.

1a _ Examples that explain "Communication and Engagement of Stakeholders" in your practice.

1) When have you engaged/communicated with your stakeholders in your project before?

Recall some examples of that to share them with the others.

To explain the experience in more detail, try to keep in mind the following points:

- What were you trying to achieve?
- How did you do it? (Try to help others understand why you made the choices you made)
- What turned out challenging for you?
- Why do you think it was like that?

2) When do you expect to do it next in your project?

Think of some examples of that and share them with the others.

- What will it be about?
- How do you think you can approach it?
- How would you explain to others this approach? (reasoning behind it...)
- What do you see as possible challenges there? And why so?

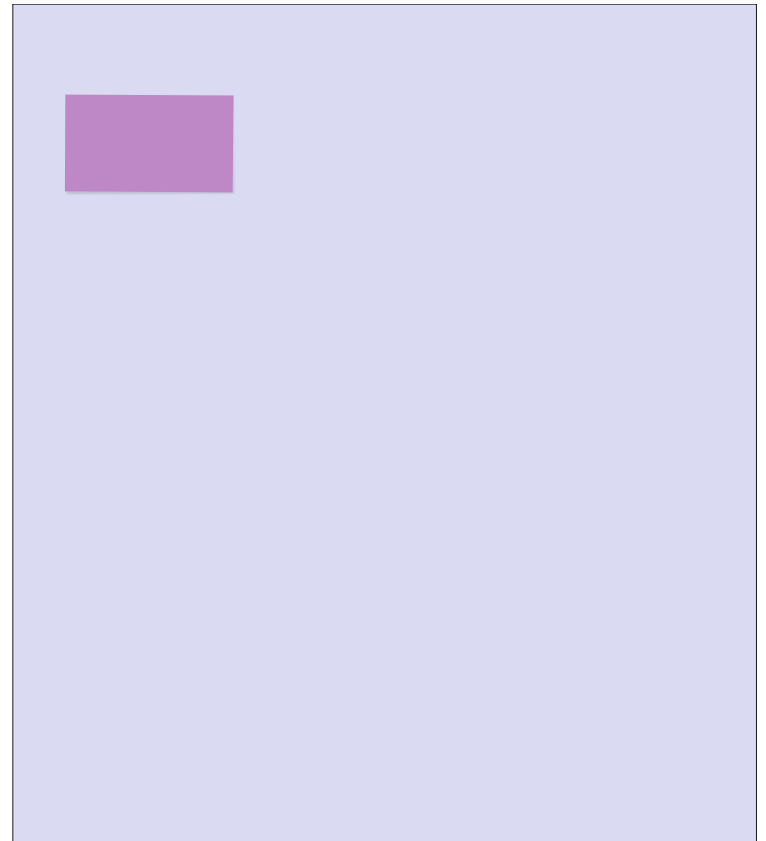

3) Share your examples from practice and plans with the others

In turns, share with the group what you thought of or wrote about in the previous step.

1b _While listening to others' stories...Do you find something interesting from the other's experiences? Is it applicable to your project? Write it down!

You may find interesting insights for your practice in other's stories. Take note of those on the post-its over here.

Let's share the findings and learnings found from this exchange of stories.

What did you find interesting from the examples/stories of others?

What are you interested to know more about?

Who would you like to talk with and why?

To continue, we will have a structured conversation to learn lessons from each other experiences, to then think through what are future steps to take in our projects, related to communication and engagement of SH.

PART 3_ Reflecting on each others' next steps

OBJECTIVE OF THE CONVERSATION

Use this conversation to help each other gain a better idea or detailed perspective on what to do next and how to approach your task/plan.

HOW?

Help each other reflect on your next steps and how to approach them.

For example, you may want to uncover each other's assumptions behind your decisions, on what is required to accomplish these tasks and finally, how the lessons learned in the previous conversation may help each other adjust your plans of action.

Also this time we have provided you with boards, for the interviewer(s) to take notes on post-its while posing questions. Take notes in the circle corresponding to the person who's talking.

Question cards (about future task)

So, what's your next task ?	And, how are you going to do it ?	Why would you go for this approach?	Something that I noticed you are really focusing on is... What do you think?
I guess that this task really requires to be good at ...	If I were in your shoes, I would do this like...	I see similarities with... what do you think?	I see particularly challenging in your case doing... what do you think?	Ask the other person about the reasons behind choosing an approach/strategy

Next steps

(Participant 1)

(Participant 2)

(Participant n)

